

Team Management

“Teamwork is the ability to work together toward a common vision. The ability to direct individual accomplishments toward organizational objectives.” Andrew Carnegie

Regular team performance check-ins will help in keeping your teams working like a well-oiled machine. Use Totara’s competencies and objectives features to plan development across the team and ensure that individual development plans fit with wider team and organisational objectives, to ensure everyone is headed in the same direction.

Totara allows your team managers to get the full potential out of their teams by ensuring that their staff have clear competencies and personal goals, that all team members have an active development plan and by providing tools to monitor progress against objectives.
