

Consultant, Advisory and Technical Service

Air Force Medical Service Commodity Council

ASM Research, an Accenture Federal Services Company, was selected by the Air Force Medical Service Commodity Council (AFMSSC) as one of multiple Consultant, Advisory and Technical Service (CATS) indefinite delivery/indefinite quantity (ID/IQ) prime contractors on February 2, 2012. The total contract ceiling, inclusive of a base year plus four option ordering periods of performance, is $985M.

This contract vehicle is designed to provide non-personal services and will allow the Air Force Medical Service (AFMS) to focus on supporting the critical worldwide medical service mission. The vehicle will provide services throughout the Continental United States and its territories, and at contractor off-site locations. Its scope includes the following services:

- Management & Professional Services
- Engineering & Technical Services
- Quantitative Studies
- Analyses and Evaluations

This award marks yet another milestone for the Air Force and a significant achievement for ASM and our teammates. Team ASM stands ready to serve the Air Force as a performance-based partner, fully committed to CATS program success. We look forward to a continuing partnership with the AFMS in a seamless pursuit of our shared mission.

How Can CATS Help?

Reduce Costs & Lower Risk

The CATS contract vehicle enables all Air Force Military Treatment Facilities and other external Air Force medical organizations (MAJCOM, FOAs, DRU, etc.) to eliminate or significantly reduce the costs and time of procuring the services with low risk solutions.

Simplify Procurement

Through this convenient method of procurement, customers can access a broad range of Team ASM's services that draw on a centralized fund, and work exclusively with the AFMSSC.

Rapid Delivery

This vehicle also provides a pre-selection process that ensures individual task order awards are quickly completed with a trusted vendor of proven quality, like Team ASM.

"We are encouraged and excited to have this opportunity to work with AFMS professionals. As a former Chief of Medical Enlisted Force for the AF Surgeon General, it is of paramount importance that the quality of our services aligns with the high standards set by AFMS for healthcare delivery."
